C. C. Lancaster made a few remarks in opposition. After Mr. Mitchell. J. L. Feeney spoke in favor of Mr. Newman. He expressed great surprise that a petty technical point should be raised against Mr. Newman.

"This whole thing was settled in the remark made by eSnator Kern," said Mr. Feeney, "that it is a matter of the intent of a man's mind." He maintained Mr. Newman was a bona fide resident of the District in the meaning of the law and had been for three years. He declared the President could not have selected for Commissioners two better men than Mr. Newman and Mr. Siddons.

Mr. Newman, who was present, made a brief statement to the committee and che dates cited by Mr. Mitchell as to his absences were approximately correct. He said these were temporary and it was always his feeling, in the last few years, that Washington was his residence and that he was to return there when he finished his tempo. turn there when he finished his temporary missions. The Times.

Mr. Newman emphasized that the best evidence on the point was that he actually did return here, after being in Chi-cago and New York and at Seagirt, where he was with Mr. Wilson through the campaign, and that he sent his family back here ahead of him.

Before the hearing on Mr. Newman, Frank B. Lord, who was named as excise commissioner, went before the com mittee. He made a statement in his own behalf, and Senator Works stated the grounds of opposition. This was in

Secretary of War Thanks Boy Scouts For Aiding Veterans

Officially complimenting the Boy Scouts who took part in the reunion of the Blue and the Gray on Gettysburg battleground last week, Secretary of War Garrison this afternoon sent telegrams to Ccout Commissioner E. S. Martin, of Washington, and the army men and State officials stationed there during the week, congratulating them on the showing made by the youths. At one time, Secretary Garrison said, there were 63,000 veterans to be cared for on the camping ground. The Boy Scouts rendered immeasurable assistance to the soldiers and civilian officers of the camp, he said. The telegrams were sent to Maj. James E. Normoyle, of the depot quartermaster's office; Maj. John C. Grotme, of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary; E. S. Martin, Scout Commissioner of the District, and Lieut. Col. A. E. Bradley, of the Medical Corps, Governor's Island.

President Receives

Hand-Made Rake From M. W. Stedman

President Wilson will have the opportunity soon to rake the meadows fresh with hay if he so desires, for Marshall W. Stedman, of Tyringham, Mass., has given him a hand-made rake with forty teeth. This gift follows out a custom inaugurated by Stedman's grandfather in the Lincoln Administration.

Stedman lives in the village where Grover Cleveland spent his summers, where Mark Twain, Richard Watson Gilder, and other celebrities have dwelt.

When it comes time for him to make the Presidential rake, he selects his choicest stock, and gives the making his personal attention in a little old factory beside the Housatonic river. No machinery touched the rake which Stedman has sent on to the President.

Washington heard today that President Wilson's rake will be smaller than the one sent to President Taft, and it wondered if Stedman-a stanch Republican-were allowing politics to enter into consideration.

DENVER, Coi. July 9.—Mrs. Whitney
Newton has adopted a pig. A few evenings ago Robert Newton brought a baby pig home, and all went well until the next evening, when he wished to attend a dance. A maid cared for the animal until midnight and then turned it over to her mistress.

Mrs. Newton resorted to almost everything to quiet his pigship without success. Finally she went to the linen closet, took out a fine piece of hemstitched linen, embroidered with blue owers, and wrapped it gently about the slick, squirming animal. "Piggy" gave a satisfied little squeal, doubled up his feet and went to sleep, happy as a lamb.

DOG JOINS WOLVES; HUNTED AND KILLED

Pack Under His Leadership Commits Depredations Until Finally Rounded Up.

BUTTE, Mont., July 9.—Bisley, a large Airedale dog, owned by W. H. Reber, of Butte, was killed while leading a pack of wolves near Red Lodge. Three wolves were shot at the same time. The following story can be verified in every detail and proves that London's "Call of the Wild" is not altogether fiction:

Bisley was the special property of Edward, W. H. Reber's son, and was kept 51/2 points. The rally resulted in a gain on the Reber ranch. "He was the best hunter I have ever seen," said the young man. "I have been out with him 10,000 shares in the first hour. Canadian many times in a boat on Rosebud Lake. The ducks would no sooner drop in the water than Bisley was out of the boat and after them. Late last winter he disappeared. A few weeks prior to that he would go off in the woods, sometimes staying away whole days. Then he vanished altogether. I thought he had attacked a cougar and got the worst of it."

John Dunn had been troubled with rowling wolves the last few months. He saw the pack several times and told of a strange looking light brown wolf that led the bunch. He believed that if he could get the leader the wolves would cease their daring attacks upon his stock. At last Mr. Dunn and several cow boys started after the bunch. They unted most of the day, setting snares. The pack was rounded up and four of the animals fell. The leader was the first one shot, as Mr. Dunn was particularly anxious to get him. When Mrticularly anxious to get him. When Mr. Dunn reached the carcass he picked up, instead of a wolf, an unusually large Airedale dog. It was Bisley, all right. A collar was still around his neck and the name of the owner on the brass tag.
